RCX Programming

Commands: Tell robot what to do (e.g. stop, go, turn, etc.).

Sensor Watchers: Test conditions (e.g. light, touch, count) and determine actions based on conditions.

Stack Controllers: Allows robot to repeat commands or wait until condition is true.

My Commands: Makes several actions a "subroutine" which can be used as a single command.
